

Selma Gamboa, pastor at Lancaster Church of the Brethren, was born in Guatemala and raised in New York City. Selma pursued education through junior high, high school, and college in the U.S. With over 25 years of experience in the medical field, Selma began as a Medical Technician and now serves as a Medical Language Facilitator at Lancaster General Hospital, supporting the hospital's Spanish-speaking population with care and communication.

Recently installed as the Pastor of Hispanic Ministry, Selma is committed to serving the Hispanic community within the congregation, with a focus on personal and spiritual growth. Her ministry emphasizes the development and use of spiritual gifts and leadership skills to further the Gospel and expand God's Kingdom. Her vision for District Ministry is rooted in seeking God and His Word first, with a desire to foster unity in the body of Christ and to love others as Christ loves us.
